

Shattered:
Vol. 7, No. 1, 2019

Contents

| | |
|--|-----|
| Letter from the Editors | 1 |
| The Poetics of Settler Fatalism: Responses to Ecocide from within the Anthropocene Phillip Henderson | 5 |
| “A Meat Locker in Hebron”: Meat Eating, Occupation, and Cruelty in To the End of the Land Aaron Kreuter | 33 |
| Speculations on the Mediterranean Borderscape: Le Baiser de Lampedusa Silvia Ruzzi | 54 |
| What Can Play: The Potential of Non-Human Players Kara Stone | 78 |
| Marilynne Robinson’s Housekeeping: Sylvie’s Fundamental Mentorship through New Western Historicism and Ecofeminist Criticism Amanda Zastrow | 103 |
| Unlovely Seeds: Human/Nature/Wilderness in Isabella Valancy Crawford’s Winona; or, The Foster-Sisters Renée Jackson-Harper | 122 |
| Decolonizing the Cosmopolitan Geospatial Imaginary of the Anthropocene: Beyond Collapsed and Exclusionary Politics of Climate Change Shelby E. Ward | 139 |